

Black Female Writers Find Broadway Success

Oct 21, 2011

"Their Own Stories"

by Peter Marks

The Washington Post*; October 20, 2011

"This season, for apparently the first time, the American theater's most visible platform will host as many as four distinct works written or adapted by African American women... Concurrently, Broadway is noticing the potency of African American ticket buyers, an economic force that for a long time had been undervalued." More...